

Imagine Yourself as a Superhero Peggy Black and the 'team'

We are here extending our support to those who are aware. We celebrate the chaos, for it is out of chaos that new realities are called forth and created. We observe, however, that those living in the experience of chaos might not feel the desire to celebrate. It is the nature of being human, the desire for what is familiar, what is safe and what matches the beliefs. Realize what you are experiencing is only your personal vibrational interpretation.

We will continue to invite you to step out of what is familiar and what is thought of as safe and acknowledge it is really only an illusion. This sense of reality that everyone is taught to hold in place is being dismantled. What appears to be breaking down in all aspects of your society is the shift which invites and allows for a new order of energy to arise.

Dysfunctional behaviors and limited mental patterns are ingrained into your entire energy field and beliefs. Mass consciousness is being stirred, quickened and triggered to awaken to the truth of the unlimited self, awakened to the truth and realization that each and every being is divine.

There are a swelling number of awakened individuals across your planet. Internal and galactic codes are being stimulated allowing a conscious shift to take place within each individual. This shift is unique within everyone. However subtle or intense, the shift is taking place.

There are many who are activating the shift by their actions, studies, and remembering who they truly are as magnificent multidimensional beings. Those of you who have been expanding into this realization understand why you are here at this time on this planet.

You are anchoring the new reality. You are securing the frequency of the higher dimensions. You are the cutting edge of conscious expansion. Own the fact that you are a true transformer of dense misqualified energy. You are unlimited. You are powerful beyond measure.

It is time for you to step into the role you came here to play. Imagine yourself as a superhero, with all of these unlimited powers for good. Ask yourself, if I had the power to change the reality on this planet, what would it be? What aspect troubles you the most? How would you change the world? What would be the first and foremost intention you would call forth? How would you hold that vision? What superpowers would be needed for this shift or change to be manifest?

To make your task or this assignment more interesting, imagine that the change will offer harm to none. This will call upon your true creative ability as the master that you are. Think totally outside the box. Imagine you are on a council of other divine conscious superheroes. Invite non-physical divine beings to support you in this endeavor. Be outrageous, be courageous, imagine the very best results for all living things.

Ask yourself often what conscious seeds would you plant? Really observe all facets of this reality. What aspect touches your heart the most? What is happening that causes you to judge and drop into a low frequency of anger or fear? These are the emotions that rob you of all your superpowers.

The most important thing to remember is that all things are possible. If you can envision it and hold that vision clear and strong, offering it into the quantum field with trust and certainty, it will manifest and become a reality. This is a cosmic and universal truth. As a superhero disguised as a human, you know and understand these universal laws and truths.

You may have to put aside all the limiting beliefs, misinformed programs and misqualified emotions you have acquired while in residency. Even if it is a brief moment, remember to shift what you are offering if it does not align with your vision of the best for all. Use your tools to transform misqualified emotions of sadness, fear, anger, lack of any kind, judgment of anyone. Once you have cleared these with sound or energy, always replace them and call forth an emotional frequency or vibration that is coherent and in balance with your heart's knowing.

Even if you are only able to step into your divine superpowers briefly, do not be discouraged, for each and every time you cause a ripple in the fabric to this energetic matrix, that brings a shift. Do not doubt this statement for a moment. It is you who continues to anchor light and truth daily. It is you, in your human form, holding the vision and anchoring that vision with your intentions, prayers and actions. The changes that occur in this dimension must be invited and called forth by someone in physical form in this dimension.

We realize this request can be a bit overwhelming to your limited mind, so take a deep breath, and select the one simple thing you would like to empower. Just focus on what you would like to shift. Remember that there are others who are stepping up as the true superheroes that they are.

Superpowers are coming forth; they are being activated. Invite them, allow them to unfold. Realize that these are just some of the codes that are being activated within you and others. It is happening, celebrate it, share it, own it, claim it. It is who you are in your divine essence.

High frequency vibrational emotions will always stimulate a shift. So remember that your superpowers are the ability to offer your joy, gratitude and appreciation as often as possible, in all situations, at all times. These frequencies and vibrations will uplift, soothe, resolve and connect. Love is the most omnipotent frequency. This truly is a divine superpower.

We are honored to have this opportunity to empower you to your true divine self. We are honored to assist and support you in this wonderful opportunity. Trust us when we say that there were many who longed to be a part of transforming this dimension, and it was you who was selected because of your personal superpowers and understanding. In gratitude, the 'team'
